3. Group summary

According to the table of our group capability analysis, the top four strengths of our group are honesty, persistence, good listener and responsible. As a group, the most important thing is that each member keeps to be honest; with good persistency, each of us is able to handle tough and unfamiliar tasks; to be a good listener can help us understand each other's ideas so that our group is able to be more productive; good responsibility can guarantee that each of us can take care of the allocated tasks, and always provide quality work. Some areas that our group is not so good at are critical thinking and creativity, we should be aware of these two aspects and make changes during this semester. The rest strengths of our group for example open-minded and optimistic are on a average level because some of our members are good at that certain area while the rest are not. By helping and collaborating with each other, our group can be even more productive. For the areas to improve, it is obvious that each of us need to be more tolerant. We also need to carefully manage our group tasks as some of us are good at certain areas such as writing.
